Scots All Saints College, Bathurst recently encouraged the Junior School (K-4) and Middle School (Years 5-8) and to submit a creative photo in the ‘space for stories’ photo competition as part of the annual Literature Festival held by the library team.

To demonstrate that you can read almost anywhere, students were invited to take a photograph of themselves reading in either their favourite spot or somewhere a little more unusual.

The students undertook the challenge with great imagination and creativity with more than 80 entries being submitted over a few weeks. All entries were impressive and ranged from reading on horseback to being part of a shop front display to in the bucket of an excavator. Beloved animals were prominent reading partners with dogs, chickens, goats, cockatoos and even kangaroos featuring in many entries.

All of the entries are on display in the library and it has been a popular space to visit and look for their friends, peers and even some teachers in the photographs. Please find the entries here:
